The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Richard Donovan, A Fine Judge

Death of Municipal Court Judge Richard J. Donovan, 45, who died by his own hand Saturday, shocked and saddened many of us.

Although he lived in Chula Vista, he had close ties with many Lemon Grove and Spring Valley residents. He was a highly respected man who had a deep sense of responsibility. He was also an extremely handsome man—in a masculine sense. He was easy to meet and easy to talk to.

Because he was a close friend of this writer's, his loss is felt beyond the writing of an obituary.

Few people, besides his wife Peggy, and two daughters, were aware how he agonized over many cases far more than he should. But Judge Donovan wanted to be certain that justice was being served. The smaller the case, the greater the agony, it often appeared.

Frequently, on a Sunday afternoon, he and his wife would stop at the home of this writer, to discuss sports, the bar, the press, and the judiciary. And he had extremely cogent views on them all.

He was encouraged to enter the race for the 77th District Assembly by another judge—Municipal Court Judge Luther N. Hussey, a long-time Lemon Grove resident. At social functions the three of us would gravitate to the others for a friendly discussion on politics.

He was elected to the Assembly in 1962 and although a strong Republican, he was appointed to the bench in 1966 by a staunch Democrat, Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown, who recognized the ability of Judge Donovan—and so stated it many times.

Judge Donovan underwent brain surgery twice for a dialated blood vessel. His recoveries were good and complete.

Judge Donovan's death will sadden thousands of Californians who knew him personally. The loss will also be suffered by all of those connected with our system of courts.

Editors Have Busy Days

Frequently, our acquaintances mention on Thursday that our week's work is done for this weekly editor so "why don't we play golf—or go fishing," or whatever most other carefree workers do.

It's true that the newspaper has been printed and distributed—and a sense of satisfaction results.

But come out and play?

It just doesn't work that way.

A newspaper editor is handmaiden to his readers and that makes us subservient to nearly 10,000 souls.

Our day, even after press day, follows pretty nearly a newsman's day described several years ago by Romain Brandt in the PLATTESVILLE (Wis.) JOURNAL.

Here's what we do during one normal day:

—Explain to an ex subscriber why we had to cut off his unpaid subscription after we had sent him four notices.

—Explain deadlines a score of times a day and explain why we have to have them.

—Explain to Mrs. Rogers why Aunt Opal's 65th birthday party story was not on the front page.

—Explain to a woman marking a fifth wedding anniversary why it is not feasible to send a photographer to her midnight bash.

—Explain to an advertiser why it is impossible to get his advertisement on page 3.

—Soothe a lady who called in the story on her party too late to get in the current issue.

—Explain why some weeks there's local news coming out of our ears and other weeks there is so little that it looks like nobody at the newspaper office came to work that week.

—Decipher scribbling that comes on check stubs, paper napkins, a corner of the youngster's arithmetic lesson paper, or the back of a letter from a friend in Vietnam.

—Apologize for spelling a fellow's name wrong. Of course it doesn't help when you've been in the same service club for too many years. And, of course he's the guy who always calls us Sam when our name is Max.

—Explain to a customer arriving late with copy that in order to get his stuff in, we'll have to leave out the stuff that came in on time. And then try to explain to the early guy why his stuff didn't make the paper.

—Apologize to an advertiser for an error in his ad and smile pleasantly while he tells us what an idiot we are.

—Listen to a nice, elderly lady who dropped in tell us in 45 minutes about her trip to Riverside to visit with another senior citizen while three people with a previously made appointment wait in the front office to see us; and two printers holding up the works while waiting to get an OK on a piece of copy.

—Rush to an emergency press conference in the downtown area only to find that it will start a half hour late and when it starts learn that the information is the weak sort of news that could best be handled by a hand-out.

—Listen to a subscriber whom you have never met describe all the details of a fishing trip. He says he feels that we are his friend because he reads our column all the time.

These are just a few of the things that take time of a newspaper editor—things that make it hard to participate in frivolities of life.

Of course any editor could quit—but he wouldn't. He loves it. He firmly believes in the old saying that "nothing's fun if you'd rather be doing something else." And he prefers what he's doing to something else.

La Mesa Youth Jailed

A La Mesa youth was arrested on the Grossmont High School campus last week on charges of carrying a concealed weapon.

Mark W. Parker, 18, was spotted near the school parking lot, and deputies noticed that he matched the description of a burglary case suspect.

A routine search for weapons was conducted, but Parker indicated that he possessed the gun before the authorities found it. The weapon, an automatic pistol, was taken as evidence, along with seven live cartridges.

Contract Signed

"A mutually satisfactory agreement" for the use of the International Sports Arena by the Republican National Committee for the 1972 GOP National Convention was reached last week by Richard L. Herman, vice chairman of the Arrangements Committee and by Peter Graham, president of the arena.

The Committee will pay $49,000 for the use of the Arena and for the right to make necessary installations that may be required to handle the Convention.

Trustees Discuss PEP, New Bus, 'Phase Two'

The Lemon Grove School Board of Trustees met Monday night for the quickest meeting of the year, and discussed board policies, the Public Employment Program, and the wage and price freeze, and approved specifications for the purchase of a bus.

Board policies, which were amended and adopted earlier this month, were duplicated and distributed at the meeting without much discussion.

Paul Reynolds reported to the board on the Public Employment Program, noting that the district has been interviewing candidates for temporary positions.

Under the Public Employment Program, the district will receive $45,000 in government funds, with which to hire seven persons on a one-year basis, as a measure to fight unemployment in California.

Reynolds said that priority would be given unemployed veterans of the Vietnam war, and added that final decisions on applications would more than likely be ready by today.

The board designated Superintendent Byron Netzley as the authorized official of the district to sign an agreement with the county regarding the district's responsibilities under the program.

The board voted approval to bid specifications for a 61-passenger bus, with bids to open December 9 and consideration of all bids to be made at the December 13 board meeting.

The specifications for the bus call for the same type of bus purchased last year for slightly over $10,000, except that a slightly larger engine would be essential to make up for lost power because of smog control.

The bus would be a manual shift, which would be economical to operate, trustees were told. $11,000 has been included in the operating budget for the bus.

Winding up the 30-minute action session of the meeting was a discussion of the President's wage and prize freeze "phase two" plan, which would allow district employees to go on the 1971-72 salary schedule.

Employees of the district, for the past three months, have been paid on the 1970-71 salary schedule because of the freeze. Under "phase two", annual increments would be allowed, but no retroactive pay would be in effect.

Following the regular session, trustees sat in executive session with representatives of the County Counsel to discuss the district's position regarding the Imperial 80 planned residential development.

The summit meeting was called after a San Diego City Council decision to allow a rehearing for the development, which had been rejected because of too high a density factor.

It is expected that the developers will revise plans for the development, calling for fewer units.

The district has been trying to reach an agreement with the developers which would insure a school site, if one is needed, and call for the developers to provide funds which would cover the cost of providing temporary school facilities for students resulting from the development.

MISS JUNIOR SAN DIEGO — Debra Holland, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Holland, of 3951 Rogers rd., Spring Valley, was selected Miss Junior San Diego at a beauty pageant held November 14 at the Bahia Hotel. Miss Holland will participate in the Miss Junior California next year.

Double Sessions Eyed At Monte Vista High School

MISS PRE-TEEN — Cindy Wright, the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright, of 451 Paraiso st., Spring Valley, was selected as Miss Pre-Teen San Diego November 14 at the Bahia Hotel. As the pageant winner, Miss Wright received her crown, a trophy, a bouquet of carnations, and a $25 savings bond. Her next stop will be in Sherman Oaks, California, when the Miss Pre-Teen California Pageant is held in September.

Enrollment Increase Expected

A delay in the opening of the Grossmont Union High School District's ninth high school may cause Monte Vista High School to utilize double sessions when school opens next September, according to Richard C. Brady, principal of the Spring Valley school.

The delay in the opening of Valhalla High School, the proposed school, Brady said, is a result of the failure of a $19 million bond issue, defeated by local voters October 19.

Valhalla would have been constructed in the Hillsdale area, south of El Cajon and just east of Spring Valley, and would have been scheduled to open in September of 1972.

The new school would have drawn from the Monte Vista attendance area, relieving already overcrowded classrooms on the local campus. Monte Vista is currently on another extended utilization program, with students attending certain classes two or three times per week rather than every day.

Under the double sessions program, sophomores, juniors, and seniors would attend classes in the morning, while freshmen students would attend in the afternoons. Morning sessions would open at 7 a.m., ending at noon, while afternoon classes would begin at noon and run through 4:30 or 5 p.m.

The Monte Vista enrollment is currently at 2,566 students, which is more than capacity under normal attendance programs, and an additional 200 students are expected to be attending next year.

At Mount Miguel High School, where double sessions have been in use for two years, enrollment is at about 2,800 students, a figure that is approximately the same as last year. An increase is expected for next year, also.

Mount Miguel went on split sessions in 1968 when enroll-

Increased Membership Breathes Life Into L.G. Chamber Meeting

A bigger chamber membership and increased attendance made for a more eventful Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce meeting last Thursday noon at Pal's Cafe, at the corner of Imperial and Lester aves. in Lemon Grove.

At the meeting, three new directors were appointed, the chamber-sponsored Christmas decoration contest was discussed, a report was received on Broadway improvements, and presentations were made regarding a map of Lemon Grove, a local telephone directory, and a proposed fund-raising musical comedy touring show.

The meeting opened with a financial report from CoC secretary Joyce Foss. The October report showed that the CoC began the month $127.38 in debt. With dues and donations, however, the cash total was raised to $1,120.12, and after $493.15 in expenditures for back wages for the secretary, utilities, membership promotions, etc., the chamber ended the month with over $600.

The November report, with dues and smaller expenditures, left the chamber with about $900 at the time of the meeting.

The bulging bank account was attributed largely to the success of Rita Wells, who in her role as membership representative, has signed 31 new members to the chamber, and has twenty more "on the hook".

Three new directors were named at the meeting, replacing those who have been unable to attend meetings.

The new directors are Jim Boyd, of State Farm Insurance, Steve Tee, of Pacific Finance, and Rosemary Johnston, of the Valley Grove News. They replaced Father Robert Rockwell, who was assigned to another church, and Art Berry and Robert Swenson, who have been unable to attend meetings due to business commitments.

Robert Russell, CoC president, reported that Gary Sweet is this year's chairman for the annual CoC-sponsored Christmas decoration contest. Ideas for this year's contest included deleting entry requirements, with judges viewing all homes in the area.

Jerry Hyde made a presentation to the meeting, offering to supply the chamber with 5,000 maps of Lemon Grove, complete with a street index and a list of points of interest. To pay for the printing costs of the map, Hyde said his company would sell advertising to be placed on the perimeter of the map. The only requirement of the chamber would be to distribute the maps free of charge.

A committee was appointed, to be chaired by Don Minnick, to study the proposal and recommend action at the next meeting. The maps would be ready early next year, if the proposal is adopted.

John Carter made a presentation of a proposed telephone book for the Lemon Grove and Spring Valley area, to be supported by the chamber.

Under the proposal, ads would be sold in the yellow pages portion of the directory to cover printing costs, with payment made to the chamber. The CoC would be involved primarily as a trust fund holder, to eliminate a repeat of an incident which occurred last year, whereby ads were sold and the directory was never published.

The proposal calls for all checks to be made payable to the chamber, so if the directory is not published, the money will be returned to those who paid.

The directory, to be released in March of next year, would be circulated to 30,000 homes locally, and would include yellow page listings of all local business, rather than exclusively those who buy advertising space.

Jim Boyd gave a report about the Lemon Grove United Crusade drive, noting that Lemon Grove reached 100% as of November 17, with more money expected soon. He predicted a 110% achievement.

Bob Russell reported on the Broadway improvement project, noting that the county has approved plans for medians, turn lanes, and traffic signals, although no parking improvements will be made. He said that the parking area could be improved at a later date.

A presentation was also made regarding a proposed two-performance appearance of a national touring company, which would produce a musical comedy in Lemon Grove as a fund raising project for the chamber. It was agreed that a committee would be appointed to study the proposal and reach an agreement with the company if possible.

LG Fire Report

The Lemon Grove Fire Department, for the week of Nov. 12-22, answered six fire calls.

The "big" call was on Sunday, Nov. 21, when the department responded to a call from the La Mesa department for a mutual aid assistance on a fire at the Helix High School, 7323 University ave., La Mesa.

Three other L.G. fires involved property damage: a fire under the hood of a car at Canton and Drexel, caused about $20 damage; a grass fire at 1365 Woodrow, caused about $50 damage to a nearby fence; and lumber piled near some trash at 7310 Broadway, caught fire and was damaged in the amount of about $25.

Helix Teacher Jailed On Marijuana Charges

Helix High School instructor Charles J. Kahan, son of the owner of the Popular Delicatessen in Lemon Grove, was arrested in Arizona last week on charges of possession and transportation of marijuana.

Kahan, who called in sick at the school last Monday, was arrested by Maricopa County Arizona Sheriff's officers Wednesday night while he was a passenger in a 3/4 ton pick up truck allegedly carrying 1,000 pounds of the illegal weed.

The driver of the pick up, Jerry Bordeaux of El Cajon, was also arrested.

Kahan is an assistant football coach and 11th grade English teacher at Helix.

In 1946, Bright enrolled for graduate work at Princeton Theological Seminary, but continued to operate his business in California. He later transferred to Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, where he continued his studies through the spring of 1951.

Later that year, he and his wife, the former Vonette Zachary, launched the ministry of Campus Crusade for Christ at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Learn Spanish the Easy Way

Hardison's Telespanish

By JAMES HARDISON

The Spanish word "produce," pronounced "pro-DOO-seh," is easy to remember because it looks exactly like the English word "produce." In simple expressions we may ask questions like "Que produce la vaca?" for "What does the cow produce?" A significant answer might be "La vaca produce leche." for "Cows produce milk."

"Que produce la abeja?" is another example which includes "produce" and would be translated "What does the bee produce?" and the response might be "La abeja produce miel." for "The bee produces honey."

"Producen" is a plural form of "produce." This form means "They produce" and may appear in phrases like "Ellos producen coches." (They produce cars.) and "Ellos producen lanchas." (They produce boats.). Also "Ellos producen muchas cosas." (They produce many things.) and "Ellos no producen nada." for "They do not produce anything."

"Producimos" is pronounced "p r o h - d o o - SEE-mohs" and means "We produce." For example we might say "Producimos algodon." (We produce cotton.) or "Producimos maiz." (We produce corn.). The same word might be used to ask a question like "Que producimos?" (What do we produce?) or "Cuando producimos?" (When do we produce?) and "Como producimos?" (How do we produce?).

"Producto" is a very similar word to the English word "product." This may be used in phrases like "Que buen producto." (What a good product.) and "Me gusta este producto." (I like this product.). The plural form is expressed in "Son buenos productos." (They are good products.) and "Son productos de leche." (They are milk products.).

To compliment your learning you may wish to practice the following phrases with the

Javier Cesena

Army Private Javier Cesena, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Cesena, 7672 North ave., Lemon Grove, on Oct. 29 completed the first phase of training under the Modern Volunteer Army Field Experiment at Ft. Ord, Calif.

Decentralized instruction at the unit level and a reduction of formations and inspections gives the soldier more time to train and increased off-duty time. Fewer restrictions on off-duty travel and improved living facilities are other benefits of the VOLAR concept.

HALF A TON — Alcoa's "Yes We Can" program proved itself again last weekend when local youngsters were invited to free admission to the film "Man in the Wilderness" at the Cinema Grossmont Theatre. In order to view the film, youngsters were required to bring a bag of aluminum cans. The youngsters responded with about 1,000 pounds, or about 10,000 cans. LETTERS

Letter Cites Need Of LG Youth Center Project

Dear Editor:

After six months of operation with only a minimum of support from the community, the Lemon Grove Youth Center is facing a new crisis. Lack of operating funds is the immediate problem. New sources of revenue must be found if the Center is to continue after December 1. One local citizen is presently meeting all costs in excess of income with his personal resources.

Determined efforts to gain community help was launched at a meeting last Wednesday, November 17. Second only to the financial need is the need for more interested adults to care and to contribute their talents and time.

The Center is currently serving about forty youths with a place to be, recreation and understanding. "Rap sessions" which are conducted on Thursday evenings by Graduate Social Work Students from San Diego State College are a new activity.

Those meeting to discuss plans to maintain and improve the Center were: C. Walter Coles, Chairman Health and Social Services Committee, Lemon Grove Planning Association; Frank Shughrue, Treasurer; Norma Stephens: Emily Johnson; Dale Wood, Youth Center Director; Verna Quinn; Jane Ferris; Jodie Wood; Estelle Lauer; Loretta Devin, Secretary of the Youth Center for San Diego County; Gary Whitlock, Defy; Laurel Wagner and Jim Mangle, San Diego State College School of Social Work; Mark Pelt, Sam Schultz and Steve Bartmas, Student Representatives.

The next meeting of the Board of Directors will be held December 1, 8:00 p.m. at the Youth Center, 3146 School lane. Civic groups and individuals who are interested in joining the effort to save the Center are most welcome to attend and offer their suggestions, ideas, opinions or criticism.

Dear Editor:

The DIMMER VIEW article November 11, "On Politicians & Tax Costs" embodied much wisdom on the subject.

For many years, I have openly been an opponent of wasteful expenditure of public funds, and a proponent of property tax reduction and "republican form of government" (U. S. Constitution Article 4 Section 4). However, in each of three public election contests for political office, in which I have been a candidate, all other candidates received more votes than I did.

Nevertheless, people who know me and understand the situation, continue to tell me that the proper place for me to do what needs to be done about it, is in legislative office. Accordingly, on June 20 this year, I publicly announced intention to again be a candidate for the state Assembly — in the June 1972 Republican primary.

I am not one of those who you said in your aforementioned article, are ". . . in the wings waiting for assembly redistricting creating . . . another district . . .". My waiting ended at least 5 months prior to redistricting, which has not yet been accomplished as I write this.

Dear Editor:

Foreign aid recipients have for years flaunted the spirit of our giving. Believe it or not, the record shows that 56 foreign countries that received our aid turned around and bought U. S. gold! No wonder the gold window has been closed. To mention only a few offenders — Chili, Egypt, Italy, Japan, United K i n g d o m, Ghana, Senegal, Somalia and Yugoslavia.

We don't have any tax funds available for foreign aid, so we'll have to borrow, and this will increase taxes.

Let your Congressmen hear from you.

STAR SIGNS — Bob Mootz, Monte Vista High School autograph hound, gets the signature of Leonard Nimoy, star of the stage and two television series. Nimoy, who is currently in the Old Globe Theatre production of "The Man in the Glass Booth", starred in TV's Star Trek and Mission Impossible. Mootz secured the signature for his collection before curtain Friday night at the Globe.

Signature-Seeking Has Good and Bad Moments

Autograph-seeking has its bad moments, but the rewards outweigh the problems, according to Monte Vista High School junior Bob Mootz, who has collected over 200 signatures from various personalities.

Bob's collection, which includes the John Hancocks of such personalities as Jimmy Stewart, Spiro T. Agnew, Charlton Heston, John Wayne, Flip Wilson, Harry Truman, and Glen Campbell, was secured through determination, letters, and plenty of phone calls.

For young Mootz, some attempts at securing autographs have proven to be near catastrophies. For example, he offers the story of how he finally got the autograph of poet Rod McKuen.

Following a McKuen concert, Bob made his way backstage seeking his autograph, only to be informed by security guards that the performer did not give autographs.

The Spring Valley lad then struck up a quick friendship with a McKuen associate, who agreed to help him in his quest. Moments later, another security guard caught sight of him and began chasing him.

Bob ran onto the stage, where McKuen stopped him, and, impressed by his tenacity, told him to meet him later by a side door, where he signed for him.

Football star Johnny Unitas was confronted by the local youth after Mootz chased him through a crowd and onto the team bus. In order to get the bus moving, Unitas inked his name.

Bob's current target is former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who has refused fifteen letters from Bob. Mootz is now considering sending a check as a contribution to the Johnson Library, which, Bob hopes, will be endorsed by the former President.

O'Farrell Runners Shock Parkway In Final Meet

O'Farrell Junior High joined the competition for the final La Mesa Recreation Department junior high cross country meets at Helix High School, and toppled favored Parkway in the seventh grade race and took fourth in the eighth grade race.

The seventh grade race proved most exciting, as La Presa Junior High runner Manuel Sandoval collected the easy win over the mile-and-a-half-course.

Parkway's usually fine grouping failed to materialize in the race, however, as the school's runners managed placings of third, seventh, ninth, thirteenth, and twenty-second for a total of 54 tallies.

O'Farrell, however, managed fifth, sixth, tenth, eleventh, and seventeeth to claim the team title with 49 points.

After both teams had placed their first four runners, the score was tied, leaving the difference in the scores up to the fifth men for both teams. O'Farrell's Rickey Reynolds, however, beat Parkway's Dave Goble by some 22 seconds and five places to give O'Farrell the win.

Rounding out the scoring were Einstein, with 74 points. La Presa, with 77 tallies, Emerald with 104 points, and Spring Valley with 134.

In the eighth grade competition, an expected battle between Parkway and Spring Valley failed to materialize, as the Spring Valley runners failed to perform over the hilly course.

Richard Bales, running under La Presa colors, was pressed to the finish line for the first time in the series by O'Farrell runner Jose Rivera. Bales took the finish ribbon just one second ahead of Rivera.

Parkway runners, again with fantastic grouping, won the team title with 34 points as Randy Wallace led a four man pack taking fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh. Picking up the final points was Steve Hillis, who managed twelfth place.

Spring Valley had fair grouping, but was well back of the winners with 60 points. La Presa got enough high places to manage third place in the race with 95 points, but O'Farrell was the surprise team of the afternoon when it took fourth place with 102 tallies.

O'Farrell, entering only three runners in the competition put all three in high enough a position to tally only 102 points after adding two more figures from the end of the race.

Rounding out the scoring were Emerald, at 108, and Einstein, at 125.

SWEETWATER VILLAGE — Rancho San Diego's first "village" will be Sweetwater Village, adjacent to Monte Vista High School, and construction is continuing at the site. The first models for the village will be open for public viewing around January 15, according to reports from the developers. When completed, Sweetwater Village will have over 1,000 houses, townhouses, and apartments, set in extensive landscaping. Construction underway now includes grading and installation of underground facilities.

Vaqs To Lose, 'Hillers To Advance To Finals

By John Nicholson

With the basketball and wrestling seasons getting underway and the football and cross country action just winding up, prep sports fans have a variety of athletic contests to view this week and next. Here is what's happening and who's winning:

Football

El Capitan and Grossmont both made their way through the first round in exciting fashion, both claiming come-from-behind victories to advance in the CIF playoffs.

This week, El Cap will meet the championship-bound Patrick Henry Patriots at Aztec Bowl, and for the first time since early in the league season, should find itself on the short end of the score. Patriots by 11.

Grossmont, meanwhile, draws another tough foe in Vista, unbeaten on the year, and the game will be a good one at Aztec Bowl. Grossmont with a stingy defense and a capable offense, should manage the win, but by not more than seven points.

The El Cap game will be Friday and the Grossmont game will be Saturday, both at 8 p.m.

Cross Country

The final meet of the year is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at Palomar College at 3 p.m. The favorite is Clairemont, which gets my pick, with El Cajon rated second and Monte Vista third. My picks here are Monte Vista second and El Cajon third. Mount Miguel will be fourth, Helix fifth, Henry sixth, Madison seventh, and Crawford eighth. Probable point totals will be 35 for Clairemont, 52 for Monte Vista, 60 for El Cajon, 89 for Mount Miguel, 104 for Helix, and 137 for Patrick Henry.

Basketball

Five games are on tap for next Tuesday involving Grossmont League schools.

La Jolla at El Cajon. El Cajon lost some people to graduation, but La Jolla still hasn't got what it takes. El Cajon by 12.

Point Loma at Granite Hills. The Eagles have improved, and Point Loma should have something to offer, so a good game is on tap. Point Loma by 6.

San Diego at Helix. Here's a pair of class teams, both per-

The San Diego Padres this week honored Ralph Smith, retired director of athletics for the city of San Diego, by establishing in his name a perpetual trophy for the winning team in San Diego's winter baseball league.

The presentation was made by the Padres' Peter Bavasi, vice president and director of minor league opperations.

Accepting the "Ralph Smith Trophy" for the city was George Loveland, San Diego supervisor of athletics.

Trevino Heads Field For Fifth Annual AW-San Diego Open

Lee Trevino, currently the all-time leading money winner for a single year, heads the lineup of golf names for the fifth annual Andy Williams San Diego Open golf tournament set for Jan. 27-30 at Torrey Pines golf course.

The colorful 1971 winner of the U. S., British and Canadian Opens within the span of a month has informed tournament officials he will be on hand to compete against golf's biggest stars in the quest for $150,000 in prize money for the Open and $20,000 in the Pro-Am, Jan. 25, 26.

Tickets will go on sale Tuesday. Rates are $2.75 weekdays; $4 Saturday or Sunday and $15 for six day season tickets.

The same tickets at the gate will be $3.50, $5 and $24. Tickets may be obtained locally at Village Liquor in Lemon Grove, and Home Federal in College Grove center.

Trevino entered last year but had to drop out at the last minute due to illness in the family..

Expected here to defend his title is George Archer, whose sensational final-round 65 lifted him to a dramatic win over five players who had tied for the lead after 54 holes. Dave Eichelberger, who finished second, is also expected.

Most of this year's other leading money winners, including popular home towners Bill Casper and Gene Littler, are planning to vie in the golf festivities sponsored by the Century Club of San Diego in partnership with Andy Williams.

The event will again be telecast nationally over ABC for the final 36 holes Saturday and Sunday.

Open play will be on the special tournament course made up of holes No. 1 through No. 3 of the North and all but 11, 12 and 13 of the South course at Torrey Pines.

The Pro-Am, featuring Andy Williams and a host of his celebrity friends, will be held at North Torrey Pines and La Costa Country Club on Jan. 25 and at both Torrey Pine courses on Jan. 26.

Pre-Qualifiers

Qualifying will be on Monday, Jan. 24 for low scorers in pre-qualifying on Friday, Southern California PGA pre-qualifiers and Tournament Players Division entries at both Carleton Oaks and North Torrey Pines courses.

The Friday pre-qualifying for amateurs and non-TPD players who do not reside in Southern California PGA section will be at Carlton Oaks. The Southern California PGA section will set the time and place for its own pre-qualifying.

Of the prize money, $150,000 is allocated to the Open with a $30,000 nest egg earmarked for the winner. The $20,000 Pro-Am purse will be split four ways, $5,000 for each course on both days.

The tournament will again benefit the Salk Institute for Biological Studies and the San Diego County Junior Golf Association. The City of San Diego will again provide the course and will utilize funds from its hotel/motel tax receipts to help finance the AWSDO.

Among those expected to join Andy in the 36-hole Celebrity Pro-Am are Danny Thomas, Jack Lemmon, Fred MacMurray, Dick Martin, Chuck Connors, Glen Campbell and many others from the fields of TV, motion pictures and sports.

There will be 144 entered in the Open. A total of 312 amateurs and celebrities will team up with pros in the Celebrity Pro-Am.

Last year's tourney found Archer, Eichelberger, Lee Edler, Bob Stone and Miller Barbar tied at 207 after three rounds with Bob Shaw, Dow Finsterwald and Paul Harney a stroke back. Jack Nicklaus, the 1969 AWSDO winner, was four strokes back at 211, but a final round 66 saw him pass

Braves, Monte Vista To Battle For Second Place

According to most cross country buffs, El Cajon Valley High School will battle Clairemont High at tomorrow afternoon for the San Diego CIF championship at Palomar College.

According to times turned in last Friday in the qualifying race over the same course, El Cajon will be battling Monte Vista, while Clairemont calmly makes off with the war.

Making a "dope sheet" with times turned in by El Cajon and Monte Vista in the preliims, on a dual meet basis, the teams would have been tied with 27½ points apiece.

As far as the scores Friday go, Clairemont swept things with 28, while Monte Vista had 46 and El Cajon had 49. El Cajon, however, was running in a slightly tougher race.

Individually, El Cajon's Terry Cotton, who was expected to be the star of the prelims, finished second in his race, one second behind surprising Alberto Velasco, of Fallbrook.

Velasco came in with a 10:10 clocking, while Cotton took a 10:11 over the grueling Palomar course.

Meanwhile in the "slower" race, Monte Vista's Gary Close ran an easy 10:22, but was not pushed, as his nearest competitor was teammate Tom Wendt, some ten seconds behind.

Mount Miguel High, rated an outside threat, erased that rating by finishing third in the first heat behind Monte Vista. Matador star Joe Stubbs, still hobbling from a hip injury sustained last week in a dual meet against Monte Vista, finished seventh.

The only hopes Mount Miguel has left is fantastic grouping, which saw the entire first five men coming in within 31 seconds of one another, a feat matched only by Clairemont. With excellent grouping, Mount Miguel could remain an outside threat in the event of a poor showing by top runners from other schools.

Looking again at Clairemont's chances, a healthy Joe Stubbs and some good performances by third and fourth men from Monte Vista and El Cajon could break up the "Chieftain Pack", which consists of four men running within ten seconds of one another.

Since Clairemont lacks a runner able to grab one of the top five spots in the race, good efforts from other teams could make the finals a three-way battle between Monte Vista, El Cajon, and Clairemont. Mount Miguel will be in the spoiler role, trying to oper the "Pack", as will Helix.

Friday's Results:

First Race

1.) Clairemont, 28; 2.) Monte Vista, 46; 3.) Mount Miguel 59; 4.) Patrick Henry, 111.

Individual

1.) Gary Close, Monte Vista, 10:22; 2.) Tom Wendt, MV, 10:32; 3.) Mark Malec, Clairemont, 10:33; 4.) Mark Odom, C, 10:34; 5.) Rick Lord, C, 10:40.

Second Race

1.) El Cajon, 49; 2.) Helix, 68; 3.) Madison, 87; 4.) Crawford, 102.

Individual

1.) Alberto Velasco, Fallbrook, 10:10; 2.) Terry Cotton, El Cajon, 10:11; 3.) Bruce Keuhne, EC, 10:29; 4.) Bob Wilson, Grossmont, 10:43; 5.) Dave Hillingsworth, Madison, 10:43.

EASY VICTORY — Monte Vista cross country star Gary Close is shown as he nears the finish line in the CIF preliminary race at Palomar College last Friday afternoon. Close, who won the first race of the day over the grueling battle with El Cajon's Terry Cotton and Fallbrook's Alberto two-mile course, will be back tomorrow afternoon to do Velasco.

Local Cowboy Qualifies For Rodeo Finals

Former Spring Valley cowboy Gary Gist, who now resides in Lakeside, this week qualified for the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City, according to reports from the Rodeo Cowboys Association.

Gary Gist

Gist, who is presently ranked fourth among association cowboys in the team roping competition, will be participating in the finals December 4-12.

Only the top fifteen money-winners in each of six events will be in the rodeo, which will include nearly $100,000 in prize money. Gist, so far this year, has won nearly $7,000.

SEVENTH PLACE — Mount Miguel's Joe Stubbs, who was injured two weeks ago in a meet against Monte Vista, was not expected to run Friday in the CIF prelims, but surprised opponents by placing seventh. SID SACKED — Sid Gillman, vice president and head coach of the San Diego Chargers football club, resigned "by mutual consent", according to Gene Klein, owner of the club, who made the announcement at a special news conference Monday. General Manager Harland Svare was named to act as interim coach for the remainder of the season.

Sacking of Sid Gillman Ends Stormy Grid Decade

By MAX GOODWIN

Not all the football drama is on the playing field.

There was a goodly hunk of it at the weekly meeting of the Sportscasters/Sportswriters Assn. Monday at Kona Kai club.

There was an air of tenseness in the room when it was announced shortly after 11 o'clock that the Chargers had called a press conference for 1:45—about 15 minutes after the time S/S/A meetings normally end.

There was little to speculate about. The immediate concensus was that Sid Gillman, the Chargers old gray coach, was through.

Most of the 40 or so reporters assembled there assumed that the dismal record of the 1971 season would be given as the reason for the separation. While it was probably the true reason, it didn't appear that way when the Chargers president Eugene V. Klein made the announcement.

Prior to the appearance of Klein, Harland Svare, and Sid Gillman, in that order, the tension started to build. Reporters and sportscasters scurried to available phones to tip their headquarters that important news would soon break.

At my table were Jeff Queen, who performed magnificently in Sunday's game; Joe Madro, one of the cagiest line coaches in the business, Jerry Gross, the popular sportscaster, among others. None admitted knowing details of the coming announcement. Madro and Queen were on the interview section of the program. They had their say and left, as did others. The room was then closed to all except the working press—then Gene Klein, the Chargers president walked in.

"Gentlemen," he intoned in a solemn voice that might have been used to announce the assassination of the president (of the United States—not president of the Chargers) "effective this morning, and by mutual consent, Sid Gillman has resigned his position as executive vice president and head coach of the San Diego Chargers."

He followed this with a string of complimentary statements but declined to discuss the language of the retirement meeting.

There was little other information given except that Harland Svare, the present general manager, would serve as interim coach for the four remaining games. None could pry a reason from Klein, beyond his statement that it was by mutual consent.

But in the question and answer period, he unintentionally revealed it. A reporter said obliquely; "Sid has a strong personality which permeated the whole organization, does this separation mean that you will set a strong organization with the coach playing a subordinate role?"

Klein rose to that immediately! "The day of the one-man rule is past. I've been moving away from it. One man is not big enough, or strong enough, or able enough, to work 80 hours a day and take care of all the details of running a pro franchise . . . Absolutely, I will segregate the duties . . . of drafting, and scouting . . ."

In the 40 minutes or so Klein faced the music, precious little was added to the reason for the separation.

Klein interoduced Svare, who really didn't need it since everyone there knew him.

Svare was cute. He claimed he'd make no dramatic changes. He said his job called for a coach only "to put on his shoes and walk up and down the sidelines looking important."

Bulwarking Klein, Svare at one point implied that some of the non-playing members would get a shot during the next four weeks.

It was several minutes after the Klein-Svare team left before Gillman ambled in.

Gulls To Try Eagles Saturday

The San Diego Gulls, with a stronger team on the ailing list than on the ice, will face the Salt Lake Golden Eagles Saturday and then head onto the road for a four-game trip. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Gulls have won both previous games against Salt Lake, but the Golden Eagles have strengthened themselves with the addition of tough Reg Fleming, one of the National League's all-time penalty leaders.

Following the game against the Golden Eagles on Saturday, the Gulls will play in Seattle on Sunday night, then continue to Portland, Salt Lake and Phoenix for road appearances.

In last week's action, the Gulls lost two games and won one, and also lost two more players to injury.

Phoenix handed the Gulls an 8-1 lacing, San Diego's worst home ice defeat in the team's five-year history, last Wednesday night on the Gulls' fifth birthday. The Gulls went on the road, losing to Denver, 4-2, on Friday night and beating Portland, 4-1, on Sunday evening.

In the Portland game, Bruce Cowick and Tom Trevelyan both scored their first goals of the season, and rookie defenseman Glenn Irwin picked up an assist. Cowick's goal, the first of his professional career, was the game-winner.

Sandy Fitzpatrick and Trevelyan saw lots of action in the week-end road games as replacements for Brian McDonald and Orest Kindrachuk, both out with injuries. McDonald suffered a bruised heel and Kindrachuk a bruised shoulder. Dunc McCallum is still recovering from a shoulder dislocation.

Irwin was sent to the Gulls by Philadelphia. He was the Flyers' third choice in last summer's amateur draft. A 5-11, 195-pounder, Irwin had 261 penalty minutes during his last season as a junior with the Estevan Bruins.

Iowa State To Invade S.D. State

The storm warning is going up this week at San Diego State as there is a powerful cyclone headed this way.

To be a little more exact, it's the Iowa State Cyclones who are headed this way to meet the Aztecs Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in San Diego Stadium.

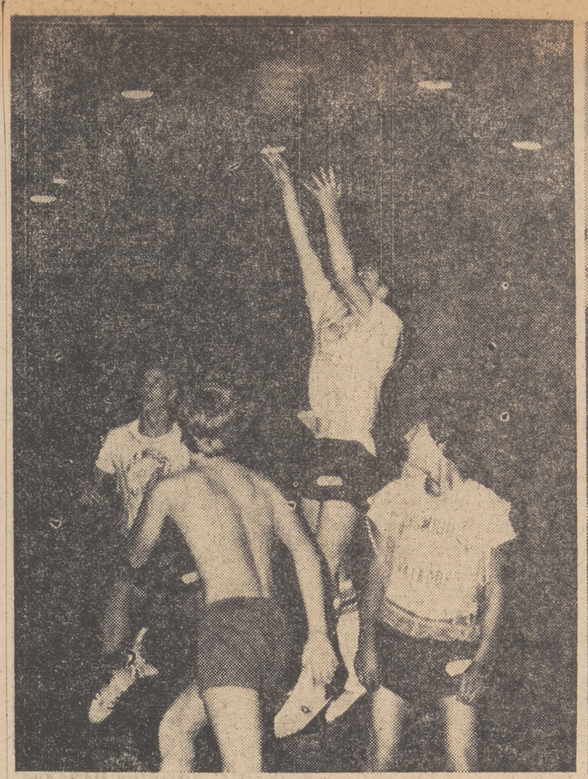
The Cyclones of coach Johnny Majors will come in with a 7-3 record and a bid to the December 18 Sun Bowl against LSU in El Paso tucked in their back pocket.

A fourth place finisher in this year's Big 8 race with a 4-3 mark, the Cyclones' only losses have come from conference foes Nebraska, Oklahoma and Colorado — all three top 10 teams.

"Iowa State features a very explosive offense," commented Aztec head coach Don Coryell. "In order to beat the teams they have, you have to score and they've done just that. A good example is the score of their last two games, 45-17 over Missouri and 54-0 over Oklahoma State."

The Cyclones will come in with one of the nation's top 15 rushers in tailback George Amundson. In last week's rout of Oklahoma State he scored four touchdowns and passed for another. On the season he's gained 1149 yards and tallied 14 TD's.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. with Ron Reina and Mike Meagher to broadcast on the Aztecs radio network (KDEO-910) starting with the Don Coryell Show at 6:55 p.m. followed by the Aztec Preview at 7:10 p.m.



SEASONS CHANGE — This week is a transition period for local prep sports, as football and cross country finish up and basketball and wrestling get tuned up for the coming season. Basketball action got underway Tuesday at Mount Miguel as the Matadors hosted Madison. Mount Miguel will be in action again next week when the Matadors host Hilltop. Monte Vista will highlight the opening of the wrestling season next Tuesday with a match against Lincoln at 6 p.m. (Dave Friend photos)

Helix and Grossmont Show Prep Basketball Power, El Capitan To Get Longshot Roll

By Paul Stark

The Helix Highlanders should nose out the Grossmont Foothillers this season for Grossmont League basketball honors, according to early season indications.

Helix has good height to match that of the Foothillers, and boast a slightly superior speed factor, which should be enough to bring the Highlanders the loop crown.

Returning from the Helix starting varsity of last year are Dennis Dupree at 5-11, and Jim Auman at 6-2, playing the guard positions, and Gary Ely at 6-9 in the center slot.

Four players up from the junior varsity will be battling it out for starting positions. They are Jim French, a 5-10 guard, Paul Meyer, a 6-4 forward, and Andy Walton, a 6-5 forward who can also play center. Additionally, 6-6 transfer Wilbert Olinde from Crawford, will bolster the Helix attack.

Last year, the Highlanders finished in a tie for second place with Grossmont, and this season the 'Hillers could make it close again.

Grossmont coach Jack Shawcroft will welcome returning center Ralph Drollinger, who stands at a towering 7 feet even. Returning also will be guard Craig Newberry at 5-9 and forwards Bob Gunderson at 6-4 and Tom Foulds at 6-6.

The 'Hillers will depend on junior varsity players Mike Robinson and Craig Stevens to fill the other spot in the starting lineup.

Grossmont has a slight advantage in height, but gives away some depth and speed to Helix.

One other team will be with Grossmont and Helix with a shot at the league championship. El Capitan, with the entire starting lineup of last year back for another season, will certainly be a team to reckon with.

Wade Vickery and Tom Lockhart, both stars last year, will be back in their guard positions, while Don Sutton (6-4) and Dave Ross (6-4) will feel comfortable in their roles as returning forwards. Back at the center spot will be Dan Schmidt at 6-6. Backing up the starters will be returner Dan Dallenbach.

The Vaqueros don't have the height necessary to go all the way, but could surprise the frontrunners with good speed and excellent depth.

Another team with the speed to get some upsets is Mount Miguel.

The Matadors, under coach Dwight Teater, will be in there knocking off some of the bigger teams, relying on a Matador tradition, the zone press and break-away offense.

Back from last year's fourth place team are guards Tim Miller and Mike Bruner, and center Steve Ayres, who saw some good duty and looked like a winner last year. Filling in at the forward positions will be Mark Dobransky, back from last year's varsity, and Brent Brown from the junior varsity.

The depth-rich Matadors will also boast such substitutes as frosh stars Jess Jenner and Steve Soloman, Clairmont transfer Terry Greenman, and JV performers Bob Baideras and Mark Guynn.

Stepping down from superstar status to average team status will be Monte Vista. Last year's CIF champs, the Monarchs will welcome only two returners, both substitutes. They are Carl Zemlick and Gene Reckin. Good JV players who will be battling for starting status include Greg Burness, Mike Moffitt, Rick Baker, Steve Smith, and Bob Gossett.

The Monarchy was hurt during the summer when expected returner Jack Cross, a star last year, moved to Chicago.

Looking at the Santana Sultans, who will be hard pressed to make the upper division, still must be considered a threat with returning superstar Geoff Hinkle, and solid performers coming back in Pat Guziak and Henry Arviso. JV hopefuls include Bob Kurtz, Mike Benson, John Huffman, and Tony Blasko.

The last place Granite Hills Eagles, with more experience under their belts, will move up a position or two in the standings.

The Eagles will welcome back solid center Dave Johnston at 6-5, and guards Mike Ortega and Roy Jones, who are expected to improve this season. Forward Doug Skidmore will also be back to lend a hand, as will JV performers Joe Roth, Roy Anderson, and Bob Dedman.

Last year the Eagles failed to win any of their games, but coach John McAdams promises that his team will not be embarrassed.

The probable cellar-dweller this season will be El Cajon Valley, hit hard by graduation. Last season the Braves had four solid performers, but this year will see only three returning from the varsity squad, two of which were substitutes. John Hurlburt will be the sole returning starter, and will be joined by Dan Harris and Dennis Smith.

Predicted standings:

Helix	12-2
Grossmont	11-3
El Capitan	9-5
Mount Miguel	8-6
Monte Vista	7-7
Santana	5-9
Granite Hills	3-11
El Cajon	1-13

Deddeh's Bill OK'd

Both the Legislature and the Governor have approved bills sponsored by Assemblyman Wadie P. Deddeh and John Dunlap (D-Napa) which creates the "Drug Education Act of 1971." Deddeh's bill, AB 1359, and the Dunlap measure, AB 2544, provide a coordinated state wide program to develop and implement drug education in the elementary and secondary school programs. The Deddeh-Dunlap package represents the first organized approach in the history of California schools.

For many years, the schools have had an undefined duty to teach something about the evils of drugs and narcotics. However, there has never been any State Law which pins the subject down and sets up guide lines for implementation.

National Cross Country Event to be Run Sat.

The National A.A.U. Cross Country championships will attract more than 250 entries as it gets under way Saturday at noon.

Starting point will be at the intersection of La Jolla Village dr. and Genesee ave. in San Diego. The course will be three loops of two miles each.

Madison Wins Prep Opener Over Miguel

The Madison Warhawks, in a foul-studded contest, won the opening basketball game of the prep season Tuesday night, 91-77 over the Mount Miguel Matadors in the Miguel gym.

Madison jumped to an early 10-0 lead, with Mount Miguel finally getting on the scoreboard midway through the first period. Madison continued to pull away, collecting a 61-33 lead at one point.

Madison was caught for 33 fouls in the game, and two Mount Miguel players fouled out of the contest. Mount Miguel came roaring back in the last quarter to put 35 points through the hoops, but Madison was too far in front.

The next scheduled action for the Matador bucketeers will be Tuesday afternoon in the Mt. Miguel gymnasium against the rival Hilltop Lancers.

The Matadors and Lancers, although playing games with one another only during the pre-season, have developed into good rivals, as both teams have been pretty well matched in past games.

Mount Miguel, while possibly giving away some talent to the Lancers, will get them in the "sweatbox" gym, where the absence of air conditioning and a usually full house bring temperatures which tax the condition of opposing teams.

The Lancers are about even in height, with a 6-5 center, 6-2 forwards, and 6-0 and 5-11 guards, but may have the edge in shooting.

Mount Miguel, with average height at 6-6, 6-3, 6-2, 5-11, and 5-10, will have a slight edge in speed and possibly rebounding.

Seven Birdies

But Archer, whose last tour victory had been the 1969 Masters, was not to be denied as he fired seven birdies in a 34-31 round to win by three strokes.

The $17,100 Eichelberger pocketed for second place was the largest payoff of his career. He was followed two strokes back by Nicklaus, Barber, Harney and Stone as the fifth 54-hole leader, Elder, dropped to a tie for ninth with a 72.

Archer's 272 broke the former 72-hole AWSDO record set by Tom Weiskopf in 1968 by a stroke.

Of course, the AWSDO is a glamorized successor to the old San Diego Open which dates back to 1952 when the first-place money was $2,000. The all-time low score was 267 set by Wes Ellis and Billy Casper at Stardust Country Club back in 1965.

renially strong. Both teams rely on good speed and defense, but Helix will get the nod here by two points.

Santana at Patrick Henry. Santana has improved, but bites off a bit too much in this one. Patrick Henry gets the nod by 15 tallies.

Hilltop at Mount Miguel. This game is one of what is developing into a good little pre-season rivalry, with Hilltop perhaps a bit stronger than Mount Miguel at this point. The Mount Miguel gym will be the difference in the game however. Mt. Miguel by four.

Wrestling

A lone match heads the calendar next Tuesday, with Lincoln invading Monte Vista. The Hornets have little to offer, and the Monarchs should have little trouble in winning by at least 18 points.

Film About Yugoslavia Scheduled

The Global Views and News Series, sponsored by Grossmont College's Office of Community Services, will continue when Kenneth Rogers personally narrates a film titled, "The New Age of Yugoslavia," at 8 p.m., December 1, at the Southland Music Center, Lemon Grove.

The film, photographed and personally narrated by Rogers, places pictorial emphasis on the youth of the nation. Most Westerners think of Yugoslavia as an underdeveloped peasant country, with people living in crude and backward fashion. "The New Age of Yugoslavia" dispels this image and portrays the contrasts that are so evident.

Today, in the major Yugoslavia cities, the streets are congested with trucks and private cars, Mod fashions are found, beauty contests are held and shops are crowded with glittering consumer goods. Yugoslavia is a country originally created from six autonomies, speaking ten different languages, with three religions and two alphabets.

In his film, Rogers, one of the youngest filmmakers in the industry, beautifully photographs the many moods and contrasts in Yugoslavia. The price of admission is $1, with tickets available at the door.

COMBO-Mart Auction Planned December 10

COMBO-Mart, where 600 items and services will be auctioned to the public, is just three weeks away.

James I. Robinson, auction chairman, said this year's will be the largest COMBO-Mart spectacle to date and will feature the greatest variety of auction items.

The doors of the Community Concourse will open at 5 p.m. Dec. 10 for two hours of viewing before bidding begins at 7 p.m.

Robinson said items will be divided into four corners of the Exhibit Hall with a live auctioneer in each corner. The categories are: art and antiques; household appliances and furnishings; leisure (trips and sporting goods); and "Santa's corner."

"Santa's corner" will include everything from fashions to toys to men's sports jackets to power tools. Robinson said the idea is to have good ideas for bargains in Christmas gifts all in one place.

This week brought in such donations as:

Home patrol service and business patrol service from the Fargo Detective Agency.

A Winchester model 70 rifle from Western Metal Supply Co.

A "Hang Ten" pillow and Raggedy Ann doll from the Lollipop Shoppe.

Boat Owners Invited To Join Bay Pageant

Entry blanks for boating participants in the second annual Mission Bay Christmas Pageant are now available, according to Robert Martinet, pageant chairman. All boat owners in San Diego County are invited to participate in this spectacular Christmas event which will be staged in Mission Bay the evening of December 11.

All entrants will decorate and illuminate their boats to qualify for participation in the event. Official entry blanks are available at the office of Mission Bay Associates located within the Mission Bay Information Center, 2802 East Mission Bay drive.

Last year's event drew more than 82 boat entries. If more than 150 entries were received, the committee would accept only the first 150.

NEW AGE — "The New Age of Yugoslavia", a pictorial visit to a country where ten different languages are used, will be presented December 1 at the Southland Music Center, 3459 Imperial ave., Lemon Grove. The film was photographed and will be personally narrated by Kenneth Rogers.

Sid Gillman Sacked

"There appeared to be a count-down," he said, regarding his contract that expired this year. "5 weeks, 4 weeks, 48 hours. He (Klein) was reluctant to discuss a new one. I asked about a new contract. When he said he wanted to evaluate the situation I tendered my resignation and offered to work out the rest of the year.

"You will have to 'scrap' some football players and look at some new ones," Gillman said of Klein's retort. "He said he wanted to look at some young ones.

"I'm a coach. I couldn't accept that and I told him it was best to make the change right now.

"He had told me that I had a lifetime contract with the Chargers when I returned to coaching (after his illness last year). I have a message for the youth of America. When somebody says to you 'son, you've got a lifetime contract,' say 'thank you, but will you please put it in writing?' "

He then spoke highly of Klein, and of the people with whom he had worked—some for as many as ten years. "But now I'm loking for a job," he said.

Thus ends the saga of two strong men—men who had many times faced each other in the stadia of many "High Noons". In this one the casualty is Gillman—but it is not a fatality. Good coaches are at a premium. The "gray one" will land on his feet.

Of one thing we're certain. Gillman will never buy any part of the old adage "An amateur boss may not always be right, but he's always boss". That's because once given the job of coach, Gillman will be the coach—and the boss of the team. That may be the blueprint for all of his successes—and his failures.

Donation Needed For Hospital Gift Boxes

The Edgemoor Geriatric Hospital Ladies Auxiliary this week began preparations for their annual Christmas program, through which patients at the hospital receive gift boxes and Christmas trees.

Crafts Festival Set By Monte Vista Students

An arts and crafts festival, sponsored by the Monte Vista High School Inter-Club Council, will be held at the school during the week of December 13-17, with proceeds to benefit the Audubon Elementary School.

The festival, which will be known as the "Cause-Bar", will consist of several booths where Monte Vista students will be able to buy and sell art and other forms of creative work.

Also due at the festival will be activities offered by on-campus clubs, including the showing of a student film, a play presented by the school's drama department, and several vocal programs.

Money raised at the fair will be used to construct a learning center at the Audubon Elementary School, where 50% of the students are of minority races.

The learning center will include a book check-out, a place where students may listen to lessons on tapes, a rock collection exhibit, and other educational media.

The school was chosen because it does not receive Federal aid to augment its program, according to Inter-Club Council president David Jessup.

College OK's Traffic Plan

Grossmont College Trustees, meeting Monday night, approved in principal a measure expected to "pave the way" for a 96-unit apartment complex near the college which could house as many as 350 college students.

Trustees approved in principal entrance and exit rights to the college-owned Grossmont College dr., which would make the complex feasible.

The matter was turned over to county counsel, with instructions to work up a plan which would be most suitable to the district.

Residents in the area have protested the contruction of the proposed apartments, citing potential traffic problems which could result from the complex. Students at the school have backed the plan.

Youth Art Mart Set

Consumer Protection Is Aim of Legislation

Stringent warranty standards for products sold in California would be protected under legislation sponsored by the state's two Senators.

The legislation, proposed by Senator John Tunney and cosponsored by Senators Alan Cranston and Edward Kennedy (D., Mass.), will be an amendment to the federal Consumer Product Warranty Act, scheduled for a vote before the Senate this week.

The special measure would allow California and other states with strict warranty standards to enforce local laws when they afford more consumer protection than federal statutes.

Cranston said that without the amendment, the tougher state consumer laws would be pre-empted by the federal legislation in the fold.

Electric Rates Boost OK'd Here

LOS ANGELES — Your electric bill will be bigger for Christmas. The California Public Utilities Commission has granted San Diego Gas & Electric authority to increase electric rates $6,476,000 a year to offset the higher fuel costs it has experienced.

The rate increase, the Commission said, is consistent with the federal government's economic stabilization program.

The increase will add about 9 cents to bills for the average residential customer.

Public hearings on the utility's full request for a $45.8 million increase will continue December 13-16 and January 5-6 in San Diego.

ment became too high for a regular program, and with further increases in 1969 and 1970, was forced into a double sessions program.

Monte Vista is currently in its second year on the extended use program, and with next year's increase will have to change to another system.

The double sessions program requires a great deal of preparation, including the scheduling of lunch periods band classes which include students in all four grade levels, and athletic activities classes. Problems also arise regarding on-campus clubs, special assemblies, and other student activities.

Although the local administration has not decided definitely on double sessions, that program will more than likely be selected, Brady said.

Students and teachers from Monte Vista have been visiting Mount Miguel and Santana High Schools, where double sessions are currently in effect, to get ideas on the feasibility of the program.

S.D. Man Jailed On 'Pot' Charge

A San Diego man, Sam F. Coronado, was arrested in Spring Valley last Tuesday evening when Sheriff's deputies discovered an ounce of marijuana hidden in his boot, according to reports from the Sheriff's Department.

Reports indicated that deputies were dispatched to Mac's Drive In restaurant at about 7:30 p.m. after a call was received about a juvenile disturbance.

Coronado was contacted at the scene, and a radio check was made to determine whether or not any outstanding warrants were issued for his arrest. It was determined that a warrant for his arrest was in effect on a marijuana sales charge.

A search for weapons was made, and he was asked to remove his boots so they could be searched. In the left boot, deputies said, the marijuana

Helix Classroom Burns In Early Morning Fire

An early morning blaze Sunday caused about $50,000 in damages at Helix High School, after flames broke out at the La Mesa school, believed to have been caused by a short in an electrical control box.

The flames were observed by a former student who was driving by the school. He reported the blaze to firemen, and ten units and thirty fire fighters were dispatched to the scene from Spring Valley, Lemon Grove, La Mesa, and El Cajon departments.

The damage was to a home economics classroom, which is used by about 150 students. The students are now using an adjoining home economics room and another nearby classroom which is unoccupied part of the day.

Grand Marshal is Topic Of OTD Assn. Meeting

Discussions about a grand marshal for the annual Lemon Grove Old Time Days Parade highlighted a meeting of the Old Time Days Association last week.

According to Jim Dorman, association president, many ideas were discussed, but no concrete decisions were reached.

Dorman said that the association would like to secure the services of a personality of note, preferably in the western field, possibly from movies or television.

It was noted that the Off-Broadway Theatre, which has been bringing big-name stars to San Diego for the past several months for stage plays, could possibly be a lead in securing a parade marshal.

The theatre will not determine who will be appearing in May until next month, however.

Also discussed at the meeting were the possibilities of having school band competition in the 1972 parade, to be judged by the Southern California School Band and Orchestra Association.

The plan, said Dorman, seems feasible. He said that the association is now sending letters to high schools in the county to determine response to the idea.

If enough response is shown, he said, the competition will be arranged.

The next meeting of the association will be December 15 at the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce office, starting at 7:30 p.m. Dorman said that anyone interested in the planning of the parade is invited to attend the meeting.
